

DAYLIGHT THUGS IN LIMBO. MAY YET BE AN ELORODO. JUST ESCAPED A LYNCHING. MORE TRACKS ON "L" LINES. SPRING STYLES FOR THE MEN.

Three of Miss Wood's Assailants Now in Custody.

They Attempted to Chloroform Two Women and Rob Their House.

NEWARK, N. J., March 11.—Superintendent of Police Brown has in custody three of the four men who made a daring but unsuccessful attempt in broad daylight yesterday afternoon to burglarize the house of John Wood, at 38 Grove street. The men were apprehended this morning. Sept. Brown declined to state their names to an "Evening World" reporter, after prudential reasons, as he expects to take the fourth man into custody during the day.

"I will say, however," said the Superintendent, "that there is no question in my mind that the fellows meant robbery if not worse, but were scared off by the screams of Mrs. Tappin and Miss Sarah Wood, Mr. Wood's daughters, whom the men found alone in the house."

"We have in our possession the handkerchief, saturated with chloroform, which one of the intruders bound over Miss Wood's mouth, and have fastened several other robbers on the men. They are all notorious thieves."

This city, or, at any rate, its trading population, is much excited over the tale told by Sarah Wood and her sisters. Mrs. Tappin corroborated the story, and said that she had seen the intruders, exerts in the neighbor's office. The sisters are both young and pretty. Their father is Constable John W. Wood, with whom they live. On May 1, 1881, Mrs. Wood, with her two sons, yesterday afternoon, disappeared from the offices of the Court-House close by, heard screams in the Wood residence, and the young women told them that their desperate men had appeared at the door, and when Mrs. Sarah opened it, in answer to their call, they saw the overpower'd her, bound her arms and tied a chlormed handkerchief over her mouth, while one of them rushed upstairs and took the key to the safe, and another threatened to shoot her if she made a noise. She stuck her head out of a window, just the same, and screamed, whereupon the police came and arrested them.

The intruder's name did not get the thieves. The latter had turned a corner before the girls reached the stairs, but there on the floor was the revolver and pistol, and the gun was loaded, with chamber open, having bullet.
